DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 6/8/2007 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 50-55 and 63-79 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Winslow (US Patent 6,063,088). Winslow discloses a spinal assembly retractor (120, Fig. 3) having a retractor cutting portion that incorporates a blade portion (204), in a channel (218) that provides an unobstructed view and is adapted to engagingly receive the retractor blade in use and in a lateral position. Winslow also includes a first and second enlarged edges (120) that extend in an axial direction to form a channel. The retractor blade also has a stop to limit the amount of sliding. The retractor body also comprises a supporting member (106) that is used for attaching a retractor pin (110). The supporting member also defines a hollow tube (108) for the retractor pin, and wherein the channel may be considered concave. The blade is also capable of moving to the distal end of the channel. Winslow also defines a second pin and channel and wherein the first and second pins are attached to the first and second supporting members, respectively.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 6/8/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. With regards to the prior art of record, it is held that the structure as required by the claims still meets the claim limitations. In response to applicant's argument that Winslow is nonanalogous art, it has been held that a prior art reference must either be in the field of applicant's endeavor or, if not, then be reasonably pertinent to the particular problem with which the applicant was concerned, in order to be relied upon as a basis for rejection of the claimed invention. See In re Oetiker, 977 F.2d 1443, 24 USPQ2d 1443 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, both references are concerning a surgical procedure, and at least access to an area of the body and further in spinal procedures. Regarding the consideration of the drill bit, a retractor is viewed as a device to gain access to an area of the body. The drill bit, though structurally different, is still capable of providing access, and further provides a cutting or blade surface in use of the device. Also, when the retractor is inserted into the channel area, it may be considered at least "engaged" with respect to the edges.

Conclusion

Art Unit: 3733

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
